

HELPING EMPLOYERS

RECOGNIZE | UNDERSTAND | RESPOND

to support the mental health of employees

Mental health issues are a growing concern for our associates, both personally and professionally.

Employees experiencing mental health issues need help and hope. They may be uncertain how their condition will be viewed at work. They often feel unsupported, misunderstood or the subject of an associated stigma – so they may suffer alone.

Employers, managers and human resources departments want to help their employees, but they don't know where to begin. Mental health issues can be hard to recognize and managers may feel ill prepared without the resources they need to address issues and offer proper support.

That's why Independent Health has partnered with Horizon Health Services, one of the largest providers of outpatient mental health and substance use treatment in Western New York, to assist managers to be adequately prepared to compassionately address issues before they get more serious. Together we help employers recognize the signs, understand what the employee is dealing with and respond appropriately during what may be a difficult conversation.

It Starts With Training Your Leaders

Before engaging your full workforce, it's important to first equip your frontline leadership team with the fundamental knowledge and skill set essential for productive support.

Our initial two-part training will help your leaders recognize the signs and symptoms of mental health issues affecting their team members, understand the impact and respond in appropriate ways.

- Mental Health in the Workplace – An online course covering mental health versus mental illness at a high level.
  - Leaders will learn about what they might see, how they play a role, how to recognize and manage a workplace issue, and available resources.
  - Allows leaders to recognize the signs of mental illness and feel comfortable having a conversation with employees about related issues.
- Understanding the Impact and How You Can Help – An online or in-person training presented by both Horizon Health Services and Independent Health.
  - Provides in-depth understanding around three of the biggest issues: depression and anxiety, substance abuse and suicide prevention.
  - Includes discussion on the mind-body connection and the important role exercise and nutrition play.
